

Prohibition on Publicity:

The customer concurs that they shall not employ, mention, or associate the name or trademarks of the Company or its affiliates in any form of media exposure, press interviews, promotional endeavors, marketing initiatives, public statements, endorsements, digital feedback, or advertisements without acquiring explicit written consent from the Company beforehand (such consent may be denied at the Company's absolute discretion), unless such communication is mandated by legal requirements. The use of "Back of The House," along with any other trademarks owned by the Company, is strictly restricted. Without the Company's explicit permission, any usage or portrayal of these marks, except as directly allowed under these Terms or any specific Order, is strictly forbidden.
